Holy Father's Intention for September 2013

That the men and women of our time, often immersed in noise, may rediscover the value of silence and learn to listen to the voice of God and their brothers and sisters.

That Christians of the world who suffer persecution in numerous regions of the world may be prophets of the love of Christ by their testimony.

REFLECTION:

The gospel reading for today is the entire 15th chapter of Luke's Gospel. It appears to be all about 'lost property': the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son. This is bound to strike a chord with all of us, because there is no one who doesn't feel lost in some way. Jesus told these three stories in response to the Pharisees who accused him of consorting with sinners- people who had lost their way.

But to be more exact, these parables are not about the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son; they are not about being lost, but about being found. Each of them underlines the joy of the finder: God's joy in seeking and finding what is lost. 'Rejoice' is the key word at the end of each story. These stories are Jesus' revelation of what God is like.

He had a vivid imagination and could have invented any kind of story, but he invented these. This is a matter of remendous significance. God rejoices to find what is lost. It doesn't require any moral extracts because its appeal is much deeper than thought. It works in us, it shapes us if we allow ourselves to dwell in it.

“There is joy before angels of God over one sinner who repents”.
